Account Portability Facility in Indian Bank

Indian Bank has got the Account Portability feature in-built in Core banking Software, for transfer of deposit accounts from one branch to another branch.

This enables the customer to have the freedom of operating his/her account from any of the branches. The customer can shift his/her account to any of the desired branch any number of times, without any change in the account number, with just a change in Home Branch code.

Customer can approach either Home Branch or the Transferee Branch with a request letter for transfer of account.

Home branch having the customer's account, certifies the KYC documents while transferring the account to another branch.

Supporting documents for New Address, Contact number etc should be given to the Transferee Branch by the customer before requesting for a fresh cheque book. Existing unused cheque leaves have to be surrendered to the Home Branch. Fresh cheque book will be issued at the Transferee Branch.

Account Portability is done in the system within minutes and hassle free.
